'LOVE'

at the brookgallery

From Rembrandt to Robert Indiana the world is awash with art about love, and all that the word 'love' encompasses. Whether spiritual or crude, syrupy, playful or humorous - Love has launched thousands of images, and in turn prompted as many emotional responses.

'This February, Brook selects some of its favourite artists work, and a few more beside, to bring you a selection of work which will inspire and excite.'

From Mychael Barratt's Venus and Mars series (are men really from Mars?), to Dame Elisabeth Frink's sensuous depiction of the famous Canterbury Tale, 'The Wife of Bath's Tale'. Through Patrick Hughes more obvious graphically perfect 'Love Hearts', to Brad Faine's saucy 'Nude not Naked', the gallery will be brimming with images that will bring a smile to your face – or a tear to your eye!

'Love' will run at the gallery and on-line from the 1st to the 22nd February 2015...
